Priority

Acknowledgement has been made of applicant's claim for priority under 35 USC 119 (a-d). The certified copy has been filed on 11/4/2005.

Information Disclosure Statement

The Information Disclosure Statement (IDS) filed 2/15/07, 12/1/2006, 11/4/2005 has been placed in the application file and the information referred to therein has been considered.

Drawings

Figure 3 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). Corrected drawings in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 1745

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is unclear as to what derivative is meant by Applicant.

Claims Analysis

To avoid 35 USC 112, 2nd paragraph issues, the limitation "indefinite-shape particle" has been defined as "shapes having knots, bumps, or bulges based on the primary particles, that is, for example, shapes like dendrite, grape clusters, or coral, unlike shapes that are spherical or egg-shaped, or that are similar to such shapes" as supported by the Specification pg 5 paragraph [0009].

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6, 8, 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Koike (JP 07-220759).

Koike discloses a secondary battery comprising a positive electrode, a negative electrode, a coating film (applicant's porous electron-insulating layer) adhered to the anode (see working example 2). A separator is present comprising a fine porous film. The coating comprises a slurry of alumina powder and PVdF mixed in n-methyl pyrrolidone. Koike discloses that the particle size of the fine particles (applicant's primary particles) is between 5 um and 10 um [0030].

Koike does not expressly disclose that the slurry comprises an indefinite shape particle comprising a plurality of primary particles that are joined to one another. However, the Examiner notes that the particles of Koike meets the broad definition of "knots, bumps, or bulges" as defined by the Applicants, when the particles are mixed together. The Examiner further notes that most surfaces are not completely smooth and therefore would the surface would meet the definition of "bumps." It is the examiner's position that the separator of Koike is identical to or only slightly different than the electron-insulating layer prepared by the method of the claim(s), because both articles were made by a similar process. See Example 1 in the instant Specification. Even though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process. In re Thorpe, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed. Cir. 1985). The burden has been shifted to the applicant to show obvious difference between the claimed product and the prior art product. In re Marosi, 218 USPQ 289 (Fed. Cir. 1983). The separator of Ashida either anticipated or strongly suggested the claimed subject matter. It is noted that if the applicant intends to rely on Examples in the specification or in a submitted declaration to show non-obviousness, the applicant should clearly state how the Examples of the present invention are commensurate in scope with the claims and how the Comparative Examples are commensurate in scope with the separator of Ashida.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Koike (JP 07-220759) in view of Waterhouse (US 4363856).

Koike discloses all the elements of claim 1 and are incorporated herein. Koike does not disclose that the resin binder comprises a polyacrylic acid derivative. Koike discloses that the resin comprises PVdF resin. However, Waterhouse teaches of using acrylic acid as a binder for the separator (3:35). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to substitute acrylic acid of Waterhouse for Koike's PVdF resin because it has been held by the court that the selection of a known material based on its suitability for its intended use is prima facie obvious. Sinclair & Carroll Co. v. Interchemical Corp., 325 U.S. 327, 65 USPQ 297 (1945). See MPEP 2144.07.
